A couple is seen from behind, sitting on a grassy hill and looking out over a town at sunset. The sun is low on the horizon, casting a warm, golden glow over the entire scene. The town below is a mix of residential and commercial buildings, with a river winding through it. In the background, there are mountains under a clear sky. The couple is in the foreground, their silhouettes softened by the warm light. The woman has blonde hair and is wearing a dark top with a crisscross back. The man has dark hair and is wearing a grey t-shirt. They are sitting close together, with the man's arm around the woman.

GREETINGS FROM GLACIER COUNTRY

Find a new perspective in Western Montana.

WELCOME

Thanks so much for considering a visit to this amazing place we get to call home—Western Montana’s Glacier Country. If you’re already here, or on your way now, welcome! We’re happy you’ve chosen to explore this special corner of Montana.

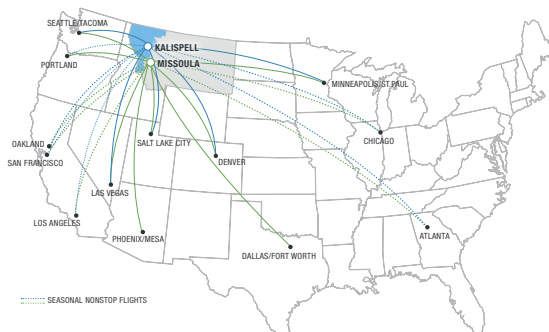

Encompassing millions of acres, Glacier Country offers destinations unlike anywhere else in the world. Natural wonders abound here, like the rushing waters of Kootenai Falls, the expansive backcountry terrain of the Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex, Flathead Lake—the largest freshwater lake in the West—the teal-colored waters of the Middle Fork of the Flathead River and the Crown of the Continent—Glacier National Park.

Among these stunning examples of Mother Nature’s finest, you’ll find warm Montana welcomes and plenty of small-town charm, plus two Indian nations, authentic western experiences, guest ranches, farm-to-table restaurants, incredible cultural events and one-of-a-kind moments that exist only under our signature big sky.

If you’re ready to start planning your trip to Montana, we can help. Our call center’s travel counselors can give you the latest, most up-to-date information on Glacier Country, including road status and current conditions for the Going-to-the-Sun Road in Glacier National Park, tips about where the fish are biting on our blue-ribbon trout streams, and powder reports for our seven downhill ski areas. We’ve also got insider information on exploring some of the region’s best off-the-beaten-path destinations and local treasures.

Getting to Western Montana is easier than you might think, with two major airports—Missoula (MSO) and Glacier Park (FCA)—served by Allegiant Air, Alaska Airlines, American Airlines, Delta Airlines, Frontier Airlines and United Airlines. Direct flights regularly arrive from Dallas-Fort Worth, Denver, Las Vegas, Minneapolis-Saint Paul, Phoenix-Mesa, Portland, Salt Lake City and Seattle-Tacoma. Seasonal flights arrive from Atlanta, Chicago O’Hare, Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco.

THE BACKBONE OF THE WORLD

A place you have to see to believe.

Known as the Crown of the Continent and described by American Indians as the Backbone of the World, Glacier National Park is altogether stunning. Massive prehistoric glaciers cut through the landscape, leaving 1 million acres of awe-inspiring terrain carved into jagged mountain peaks, hanging valleys and high alpine meadows. Today, the park is home to hundreds of lakes, 734 miles of maintained trails, rolling foothills, striking rock faces, cascading waterfalls, 25 glaciers and some of the most jaw-dropping views in the world.

If it's your first visit to the park, you're well-advised to set out on the Going-to-the-Sun Road. This 50-mile drive is both an engineering marvel and National Historic Landmark, and it's pretty easy on the eyes. The road connects West Glacier and St. Mary—winding through some of the country's most beautiful scenery and cresting the Continental Divide at 6,646 feet at Logan Pass. You can drive private vehicles on park roads, but plan to soak up the sights and leave the driving to someone else by booking an interpretive red bus tour with Glacier National Park Lodges or a Blackfeet interpretive tour with Sun Tours. Both tours operate May to October and are an insightful and educational way to learn about the park, its history and its terrain. Sun Tours offers the chance to see the park from a viewpoint not many get to see—the perspective of the Blackfeet Tribe. The National Park Service also operates a free shuttle system from July to Labor Day.

The Going-to-the-Sun Road is the most-visited place in Glacier National Park, but the park is also home to other exceptionally beautiful and less-explored areas. Visit the North Fork—home to Kintla and Bowman lakes—Two Medicine, Many Glacier and Goat Haunt.

Exploring the park by water and trail is easy, with concessioners, businesses and outfitters in and around the park providing a variety of travel options. Inside the park, take a guided hiking or biking trip with Glacier Guides, hop aboard one of Glacier Park Boat Company's historic wooden boats, set out on a horseback trail ride with Swan Mountain Outfitters or take a guided snowshoe or cross-country ski tour from the Izaak Walton Inn with Glacier Adventure Guides. Outside the park, sign up for a whitewater or scenic float trip on the Middle Fork of the Flathead River (which borders the park) with one of the rafting companies in West Glacier.

Summer sees the most visitors here, but it's important to note that Glacier National Park is open—and unbelievable—all year long. During fall, wildlife-watching opportunities are in abundance and the autumn foliage is some of Montana's most vibrant. Winter transforms the park into a life-size snow globe, and fresh, pristine powder is ideal for snowshoeing, cross-country skiing and backcountry exploration. Spring is a draw for hikers and bikers, with early-season access on the Going-to-the-Sun Road before it opens to vehicular traffic. In the fall, folks can also access the road vehicle-free. Though services within the park are limited during non-peak seasons, the charming towns just outside the park offer plenty of authentic Glacier Country lodging and amenities.

For more information on exploring Glacier National Park, visit glaciermt.com/glacier-park or call us at 800.338.5072.

COME SEE GLACIER NATIONAL PARK

Explore the Crown of the Continent.

Enjoying the view on the Going-to-the-Sun Road in Glacier National Park. © GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

Chances are, you're here to see Glacier National Park, and we couldn't be happier to show it off. It's a pretty amazing year-round destination, and there are some incredible things to see and do beyond park boundaries as well—especially during seasons when services within the park are limited. We've rounded up 10 of our favorite things to do just outside the park. Remember to take your time exploring so you don't miss any of the stunning scenery. Note that some of our roads are a bit rural and cell service can be spotty. We like it this way, and suspect you will, too.

1. Take in the view of the park's Two Medicine Lake area from Looking Glass Highway.
2. Stay in a historic caboose at the Izaak Walton Inn—complete with ski-in/ski-out winter adventures.
3. Rent a moped from Crown of the Continent Discovery Center and take a self-guided tour of the park—a unique and exhilarating way to see the sights.
4. Kayak Hungry Horse Reservoir, one of the area's best-kept secrets.
5. Take a trek with the “camels of the clouds.” Try Swan Mountain Llama Trekking.
6. Taste Montana spirits on a tour at Glacier Distilling Company in Coram.
7. Try stand-up paddleboarding with Great Northern Whitewater Raft & Resort.
8. Visit Columbia Falls for great food, Montana beer, locally owned shops and a weekly summer farmers market.
9. Drive the rural North Fork Road to Polebridge and stop at the mercantile for a world-famous pastry.
10. Visit the Museum of the Plains Indian in Browning for an American Indian history lesson.

Here are some suggested itineraries to help you explore the park: glaciermt.com/glacier-park-itineraries.

A MONTANA ROAD TRIP: GLACIER TO YELLOWSTONE

Many travelers to Montana wisely plan their trips to include both of our national parks: Glacier and Yellowstone. To help make the most of your time, we've put together four ideal road-trip itineraries that all offer an authentic park-to-park experience.

Lake Como. © NOAH COUSER

Glacier → Bitterroot Valley → Yellowstone

DISTANCE: West Glacier to West Yellowstone, 465 miles

OVERVIEW: Travel through some of Western Montana's most beautiful and quiet valleys, which are an ideal option if you're looking to get off the beaten path.

HIGHLIGHTS: Flathead Lake, Missoula, Bitterroot Trail, Bitterroot River, Daly Mansion, Big Hole National Battlefield, Wisdom, Ghost towns (Virginia City, Nevada City and Bannack)

PRO TIP: Set aside at least two days for this trip and plan to overnight in Hamilton or Stevensville.

A Forest Service lookout near Seeley Lake. © JASON SAVAGE

Glacier → Seeley-Swan Valley → Yellowstone

DISTANCE: West Glacier to Gardiner, 390 miles

OVERVIEW: Travel through the scenic Seeley-Swan Valley—one of the prettiest roads in all of Montana, before passing through Helena, our state capital.

HIGHLIGHTS: Bigfork, Swan Lake, Holland Lake, Seeley Lake, Helena, Bozeman, Livingston

PRO TIP: Plan your trip to include a stop at Holland Lake—just 7 miles off U.S. Highway 83 in the Swan Valley. It's stunningly beautiful and is a great place to enjoy a picnic lunch.

Downtown Missoula. © GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

Glacier → Missoula → Yellowstone

DISTANCE: West Glacier to West Yellowstone, 402 miles

OVERVIEW: This route is mostly freeways, but, around here, even those are scenic. Travel past the richest hill on earth—Butte's Berkeley Pit, named for its rich copper deposits—and Lewis and Clark Caverns.

HIGHLIGHTS: Flathead Lake, Polson, Mission Mountains, St. Ignatius Mission, National Bison Range, Missoula, Butte, Ennis (great fly-fishing on the Madison River)

PRO TIP: Spend the night in Missoula and explore the city's thriving culinary scene, world-class breweries and unique outdoor music venues.

The open road near St. Mary. © GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

Glacier → Rocky Mountain Front → Yellowstone

DISTANCE: St. Mary to Gardiner, 381 miles

OVERVIEW: If you want to hit Montana's open roads and see the stunning landscape that is the Rocky Mountain Front (aka where the plains meet the Rocky Mountains), this is the route for you.

HIGHLIGHTS: St. Mary, Browning, Choteau, Augusta, Helena, Bozeman

PRO TIP: Stop and stroll through the cities and towns along the way. Be sure to visit local shops and watering holes, and explore some of the easily-accessible hikes and lakes in the area.

LAKE TIME

OUR BIGGEST SECRET: FLATHEAD LAKE

Welcome to pristine Montana water.

Watching the sunrise over Flathead Lake. © GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

When you think of Montana, the first thing that probably comes to mind is mountains. That being the case, one of our beloved destinations—Flathead Lake—tends to fly under the radar, which is surprising since it's over 27 miles long, nearly 15 miles wide and 300 feet deep. As the largest natural freshwater lake in the West, Flathead Lake provides unparalleled fishing and recreational opportunities like stand-up paddleboarding, kayaking, boating, fishing and sailing. Plus, with 185 miles of shoreline, there are plenty of places to stop, stay, play and tee up for golf—the Flathead Valley boasts several courses. There are multiple islands on the lake, the largest of which is Wild Horse Island. Created more than 17,000 years ago by heavy glacial activity, this 2,160-acre island serves as a day-use state park. Only accessible by boat, Wild Horse Island is pretty explore-worthy and is a prime wildlife-watching destination, home to wild horses, bighorn sheep, coyotes, deer and a variety of birds.

EAT + DRINK: Taste Flathead flavor by picking up the coveted local fruit—Flathead cherries—at various stops along State Highway 35 around the east side of the lake or U.S. Highway 93 around the lake's west side. For local grub and lakeside dining, visit Marina Cay, The Raven or Flathead Lake Brewing Company—all in the charming town of Bigfork. See more at glaciermt.com/eat.

STAY: A variety of lodging options can be found around the lake. Be sure to check out these properties: Red Lion Inn & Suites in Polson, Mountain Lake Lodge in Bigfork and Edgewater R.V. Resort & Motel in Lakeside. See a full list at glaciermt.com/stay.

PLAY: From sailing to kayaking to fishing, lake recreation is abundant. Set sail with Flathead Lake Sailing and Charters, take a boat tour with Far West or book a dinner cruise with Kwataqnuq Flathead Lake Resort & Casino. Local outfitters, including Bagley Guide Service and Base Camp Bigfork, offer guided fishing excursions on the lake. Get inspired at glaciermt.com/things-to-do-in-the-water.

EXPLORE: The charming communities around the lake—including Big Arm, Bigfork, Dayton, Elmo, Lakeside, Polson, Rollins and Somers—offer the kind of small-town hospitality for which Montana is known, with amenities ranging from lakeside lodging to live theater and friendly breweries. Visit glaciermt.com/communities.

Learn more about recreation opportunities on Flathead Lake at glaciermt.com/flathead-lake and protecting our waters at cleandraindry.mt.gov.

GET OUTSIDE AND PLAY

Outdoor adventure here is second to none.

Fishing the Middle Fork of the Flathead River. © GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

Hiking Glacier National Park's Highline Trail. © NOAH COUSER

To help make it easier for you to know where to begin your outdoor adventures, we've rounded up the best locations to hike, bike, fish and golf.

HIKE: With thousands of miles of hiking trails ranging from easy day hikes to multiday backcountry excursions, Glacier Country is a true hiker's haven. The most well-known trekking destination: Glacier National Park. With 734 miles of diverse hiking trails through glacial-carved terrain and stunning views of backcountry mountain peaks, Glacier is a must. Just south of the park is the Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex. The Bob offers more than 1,000 miles of multiuse trails shared by hikers and horseback riders. For easily accessible hikes, set your sights on the Bitterroot Valley. Home to jagged peaks, high alpine lakes and some of the most stunning canyon views in Montana, the Bitterroot Mountains are an ideal location for a day hike. For close-to-town hiking options, check out Mount Sentinel in Missoula (with an expansive view of the Missoula Valley), the Jewel Basin near Bigfork and Big Mountain just north of Whitefish. Learn more at glaciermt.com/hiking.

BIKE: A prime destination for bikers, our diverse trail systems offer family-friendly routes and hardcore downhill mountain biking opportunities. Whitefish is one of our top spots. With more than 30 miles of lift-accessed and cross-country trails, Whitefish Mountain Resort's award-winning bike park provides sweeping views of the Flathead Valley and Glacier National Park. West of town, The Whitefish Trail offers stacked loops, scenic overlooks and single-track trails, plus fat biking in the winter. Twelve trailheads provide access to more than 42 miles of trails. We also recommend Glacier National Park's Going-to-the-Sun Road and Apgar Bike Path, Blue Mountain Recreation Area near Missoula and the Route of the Hiawatha near St. Regis. A family-friendly ride, the 15-mile-long Route of the Hiawatha takes riders through 10 old railroad tunnels and across seven high trestles. The paved 50-mile-long Bitterroot Trail connects Missoula and Hamilton, and the quaint towns along the way. Learn more at glaciermt.com/biking.

FISH: Western Montana, in part thanks to Norman Maclean's "A River Runs Through It," is known for its incredible fishing. With blue-ribbon trout streams and rivers, there's no lack of places to cast a line. You'll find trophy fish in the Bitterroot, Blackfoot and Clark Fork rivers, as well as Rock Creek. Meanwhile, in the northwest corner of the state, you're well-advised to head to the teal-colored waters of the Middle Fork of the Flathead River and the Kootenai River. If you prefer lake fishing, try Flathead Lake, Lake Koocanusa and Noxon Reservoir. Ice fishing is also popular around these parts and offers the opportunity to sit back, relax and enjoy the serenity of a Montana winter. Grab your augers and head to Horseshoe Lake for ice fishing the elusive tiger muskie. Learn more at glaciermt.com/fishing.

GOLF: Golfing in Montana comes with a rare combination of renowned courses, stunning scenery, and affordability. Our season on the green typically lasts from mid-April through mid-October. And with 29 golf courses—including The Wilderness Club, rated #1 golf course in the state by Golfweek—it's safe to say Glacier Country is one of the best golf destinations in the United States. Check out the Northwest Montana Golf Association to book tee times at 10 courses throughout the region. Learn more at glaciermt.com/golf.

PACK YOUR BAGS AND GET OUT THERE.

Whether you're hiking Glacier National Park or enjoying a game at the University of Montana, there's a local experience waiting for you.

WATCHABLE WILDLIFE

We're not the only ones who call this place home.

A bighorn sheep on Logan Pass at the Continental Divide. © CALEB RAYNE

Within our regional boundaries are more than 22,000 square miles, thousands of lakes and streams, diverse wilderness areas and Glacier National Park—one of the most intact ecosystems in the continental United States. Numerous species of wildlife live within this terrain, including grizzly bears, black bears, bison, moose, wolves, mountain goats, bighorn sheep, elk, mountain lions, wolverines, lynx and deer. There are also hundreds of species of birds that call our mountains and valleys home, including bald eagles, osprey, harlequin ducks, snowy owls and golden eagles.

WILDLIFE SAFETY: Wildlife is just that—wild. Here are the best tips for having a safe and pleasant experience when wildlife watching:

1. View wildlife from the safety of your car or from a safe distance. Stay at least 100 yards away from bears and at least 25 yards away from other large animals.
2. Never approach, touch or feed wildlife, even when an animal does not seem to be threatened by your presence.
3. Let wildlife know you're nearby. When hiking, be sure to bring a friend, carry bear spray, stay on designated trails and make noise at regular intervals.

GOOD TO KNOW: Dawn and dusk are the best times to see wildlife, especially during the summer months. Western Montana is wild: keep in mind that you can see wildlife anywhere in the region. When recreating outdoors, be sure to practice proper outdoor safety to ensure your wildlife encounters are positive.

MONTANA'S BACKYARD TREASURES

Explore our state parks and national forests.

If your getaway goals include epic outdoor experiences, alpine sunshine and pure mountain air, you've come to the right place. Glacier National Park and the Bob Marshall Wilderness are both worthy destinations to experience our true nature, but there are plenty of other areas in Montana for authentic outdoor adventures, like national forests and state parks.

Montana boasts 55 state parks, 21 of which are in Glacier Country. Each park provides access to some of the region's best nature-based experiences. For fun on the water, visit one of the six state parks on Flathead Lake. Overnight campsites are available at Wayfarers, West Shore, Big Arm, Finley Point and Yellow Bay state parks, and day-use recreation can be found at Wild Horse Island State Park. Many of the region's state parks also offer a look into Montana's history. Of note: Missoula's Council Grove State Park and Milltown State Park (Montana's newest state park), Fort Owen State Park in Stevensville and Travelers' Rest State Park in Lolo.

East of Flathead Lake, the 90-mile-long Seeley-Swan Valley is home to countless lakes, rivers and forested land ideal for boating, fishing, kayaking, swimming, hiking and camping. Numerous public campgrounds, picnic areas and maintained trails can be found throughout the valley. Salmon Lake and Placid Lake state parks offer overnight camping, public boat launches, showers and RV hookups.

Additional recreation opportunities can be found at off-the-beaten-path parks, including Painted Rocks State Park near Darby, Fish Creek State Park near Alberton and Thompson Falls State Park in Thompson Falls. Fun fact: Many Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks fishing access sites offer dry camping. Sites can't be reserved in advance, however, so make sure you have a backup plan.

For a complete overview of Montana State Parks, or to book a campsite, visit stateparks.mt.gov. You can also learn more about our wilderness areas, as well as state parks and national forests, at glaciermt.com/parks.

A STORY CENTURIES IN THE MAKING

The American Indian way of life.

Some say the history of modern-day Montana dates back to Lewis and Clark's expedition through the West, while others know that going back 200 years merely dusts the surface. It's safe to say that people have called the plains and mountains of Montana home for millennia, with evidence of human use in and around Glacier National Park dating back more than 10,000 years. History shows that the land east of the park was home to the Blackfeet Indian Tribe, and the Salish and Kootenai Tribes inhabited the valleys west of the Continental Divide and hunted on the eastern plains.

Our cultural heritage is a rich, colorful tapestry of tradition, art, music, dance, storytelling, adventure, industry and leisure that creates a place of awe-inspiring spirit and wonder.

Prior to becoming a state in 1889, several tribes lived in the region. Today, Montana has seven Indian reservations and 12 tribes: the Assiniboiné, Blackfeet, Chippewa, Cree, Crow, Gros Ventres, Kootenai, Little Shell, Northern Cheyenne, Pend d'Oreilles, Salish and Sioux. Each of these tribal nations observes and celebrates its own distinct story, heritage and traditions.

On the Flathead and Blackfeet reservations—both located within Glacier Country—American Indian culture is shared and experienced against the backdrop of sacred landscapes, often through pow wows and storytelling. Several tribes, including the Blackfeet and Confederated Salish and Kootenai, speak their native language and honor their tribe's traditions as they work to preserve and share their heritage.

To learn about the Blackfeet Tribe and its relation to the Backbone of the World—Glacier National Park—book a day trip with Sun Tours. Or, plan a visit to the tribe's headquarters of Browning and pore over the artifacts, exhibits and art at the Museum of the Plains Indian, Lodgepole Gallery & Tipi Village, Blackfeet Heritage Center & Art Gallery, Western Curios and Faught's Blackfeet Trading Post.

Discover more about the history and heritage of Montana's First Nations, attend a pow wow or annual event like North American Indian Days in Browning, Kyiyo Pow Wow in Missoula, Arlee Esyapqeyni "Celebration," or one of the presentations of the Native America Speaks program in and around Glacier National Park all summer.

Learn more about experiencing Montana's First Nations at glaciermt.com/american-indian-sites and visitmt.com/indian-country.

CULTURE INSPIRED BY NATURE

The arts abound in Western Montana.

Tucked into our pristine Montana landscapes are cultural treasures that aren't always expected in a state known more for its natural beauty than its cultural attractions. But we think it's precisely this natural beauty that inspires the artists, writers and performers who create here. With a cultural personality that includes native traditions, western lore and a splash of cosmopolitan flair, there's plenty to explore and discover throughout Western Montana.

History buffs: visit Holt Heritage Museum in Lolo (by appointment only), Ninepipes Museum of Early Montana in Charlo, the Daly Mansion in Hamilton and Missoula's Historical Museum at Fort Missoula.

If you're curious about "big-city" living in Montana, Missoula—our state's cultural hub—is the place. With a lively, historic and walkable downtown, Missoula is one of the region's most well-rounded cities for live music, art galleries—including the Missoula Art Museum and the Radius Gallery—farm-to-table dining and live performances at the Missoula Community Theatre.

The Flathead Valley is another hotbed for arts, culture and Montana history. Home to several museums and a lively performing arts scene that includes the Alpine Theatre Project, Bigfork Summer Playhouse, Glacier Symphony and Chorale, and Port Polson Players, you'll find plenty of year-round entertainment here.

Round out your arts and culture experience by attending a local community farmers market, gallery walk or annual event like Trout Creek's Huckleberry Festival, Whitefish Winter Carnival, Seeley Lake's In the Footsteps of Norman Maclean Festival, Polson's Flathead Cherry Festival, the Bitterroot Celtic Games & Gathering in Hamilton, Missoula's Symphony in the Park or Kalispell's Arts in the Park.

BIG SKY BEATS

Montana's mountain music scene.

Nature usually plays first chair here, but Montana hosts some of the world's finest musicians, drawn to the Rocky Mountains, the expansive sky and the beauty around every bend.

Catch a symphony in the park or a music festival in the downtown streets of one of our charming small towns. Missoula boasts a phenomenal live music scene, with outdoor amphitheaters at two of the city's largest breweries, including the KettleHouse Amphitheater on the banks of the Blackfoot River. See a national act in concert at Missoula's Top Hat Lounge, Ogren Park, The Wilma, the University of Montana's Adams Center or Washington-Grizzly Stadium.

Here's a list of some of the best music events west of the Continental Divide: Festival Amadeus in Whitefish, Flathead Lake Blues Festival in Polson, Crown of the Continent Guitar Festival in Bigfork, Montana Baroque Music Festival in Paradise and Missoula's River City Roots Festival and Travelers' Rest Festival.

DISCOVER OUR MOST COLORFUL SEASON

The abundance of a Montana autumn.

There's no doubt that fall is one of the loveliest times to explore Western Montana's Glacier Country. In addition to vibrant colors, visitation tends to quiet down a bit. The valleys and mountains say goodbye to the green shades of summer and hello to the brilliant and rich yellows and golds, as aspen, cottonwood and tamarack trees show off their perfectly coordinated hues.

While Glacier Country is surrounded by the changing colors of fall, there are a few viewing destinations that top the list. One of the best places: Glacier National Park. With a stunning juxtaposition of snowcapped mountain peaks, high alpine valleys and vibrant shades of red and yellow, the diversity of the park's terrain gives many different perspectives of the Crown of the Continent's color palette. If you're planning to visit the park in autumn, be sure to check out these specific locations in and around the park: North Fork Road (between Columbia Falls and Polebridge), Bowman Lake, U.S. Highway 2 near Essex, Two Medicine, Looking Glass Highway, the Going-to-the-Sun Road and Chief Mountain Highway.

Another hot spot for fall colors is the Seeley-Swan Valley on U.S. Highway 83. This 90-mile-long corridor winds along the valley floor between the Swan Mountains, Bob Marshall Wilderness and Mission Mountains, providing extraordinary views and a quiet corridor.

Additional fall foliage viewing destinations include Missoula—aptly nicknamed the Garden City—the Daly Mansion Museum and Margaret Daly Memorial Arboretum in Hamilton, and the Lake Koocanusa Scenic Byway near Libby. Many of the region's byways and backroads put you up close with quieter, more undiscovered leaf-peeping paradises.

See more tips on fall travel and scenic byways at glaciermt.com/things-to-do-in-the-fall and glaciermt.com/fall-road-trips.

BIG SKY, BIG APPETITE

Big Sky Country may not seem like a top-of-mind dining destination, but it's that very thing. Incredible restaurants operate here with a strong commitment to locally sourced cuisine. Our chefs serve up mouthwatering dishes at a variety of establishments. Whether you're looking for a juicy Montana steak, French-inspired cuisine, farm-to-table dishes, local burgers, comfort food, gluten free, vegan or vegetarian—we have you covered.

HOMESTYLE FOOD: For good old-fashioned flavor, start your morning at Minnie's Montana Café in Thompson Falls, grab brunch at East Shore Smoke House in Polson or head to The Montana Club, with locations in Missoula and Kalispell.

BISON, BEEF + BREWS: To get your fix of locally sourced meat and finely crafted Montana beer, savor a burger at Top Hat Lounge or beer at Backslope Brewing in Columbia Falls or Libby's Cabinet Mountain Brewing Co. Enjoy bison meatloaf at The Belton Chalet in West Glacier or bite into a buffalo burger at Johnson's of St. Mary.

SMALL TOWNS, BIG-CITY FLAVOR: Fill up on fresh Mexican food at Serrano's in East Glacier Park or please your palate on Cajun-inspired dishes at Tupelo Grille in Whitefish. For Asian flavors, head to the Mustard Seed in Missoula, and don't miss their dessert menu.

LOCAL LICKS: We all scream for ice cream all year long here. Get the scoop at Sweet Peaks—it's locally made using Montana dairy, with classic and specialty flavors, an ice cream truck and locations in Whitefish, Kalispell and Missoula.

FINE FARE + FUN FOOD: We're all about pairing food and wine, and the James Beard-nominated chef at Cafe Kandahar in Whitefish creates a menu that can attest to that. Or, try Mrs. Wonderful's Café in Polson, where organic and gourmet find the way to your heart. Bonfire in Bigfork features classic American-style food with a twist and a cocktail bar, and Josephine's Bar & Kitchen in Coram pairs an excellent menu with Montana-distilled spirits.

FARMERS MARKET MAGIC: 24 OUTDOOR COMMUNITY MARKETS

Our very popular outdoor community markets are a big part of Western Montana's charm. Imagine strolling through the downtown streets of a small mountain town on a Saturday morning in the warm summer sunshine, the area bustling with locals and visitors, farmers and gardeners, bakers and makers. Friends and neighbors are gathered at coffee carts, baked goods are in abundance, street musicians liven up every block and freshly picked wild huckleberries are ripe and ready.

Glacier Country's market scene boasts gatherings big and small, each one a truly unique experience set against one scenic backdrop after another. From fresh produce, local meats, cheeses and honey to all manner of locally-made arts and crafts like pottery, paintings, photography, jewelry, clothing and woodcarvings, these community gatherings offer a chance to support local growers, artisans and small businesses.

Missoula alone plays host to three Saturday markets (as well as a Tuesday one), including a farmers market named one of the top 10 farmers markets in the West by Sunset magazine. If you find yourself in Whitefish on a summer Tuesday evening, visit their popular farmers market, or head to the Bitterroot Valley for a market in Stevensville, Florence, Hamilton or Darby.

Western Montana's farmers markets offer an authentic glimpse of life in the Rocky Mountain West, and they provide the chance to meet the heart and soul of Glacier Country—our charming and lively small towns. A late spring through early autumn visit to Montana isn't complete without a trip to one of these celebrated local favorites.

MONDAYS: Bigfork

TUESDAYS: Darby, Missoula, Whitefish

WEDNESDAYS: Arlee, Bigfork, Cut Bank, Eureka, Trout Creek

THURSDAYS: Alberton, Columbia Falls, Libby

SAVOR THE LOCAL SPIRIT

We take our drinks seriously in Montana. Which is why you'll find local beer, wine and spirits from 30 breweries—with 17 in Missoula and the Bitterroot alone—plus nine wineries and nine distilleries. Here's a handful to get you started.

9 PLACES TO DRINK UP, MONTANA STYLE

1. CABINET MOUNTAIN BREWING CO.

Dubbed "Libby's Living Room," this neighborhood brewery is a Kootenai River Valley favorite. Hop on in for an award-winning Yaak Attack IPA.

2. FLATHEAD LAKE BREWING CO.

Sip exceptional beer and savor lake views. Time it right and try an award-winning Brewer's Reserve Series Dirty Ginger.

3. SPOTTED BEAR SPIRITS

The cocktails at this Whitefish distillery are made with adventure in mind, like the Coffee Liqueur "Snowghost."

4. GREAT NORTHERN BREWING COMPANY

Every beer made in this Whitefish brewery is a celebration of the good life. Try the award-winning Wheatfish Lager.

5. KALISPELL BREWING COMPANY

"A toast to your Montana adventure," sip on a Two Ski Brewski Pils® at this 10-barrel brewhouse.

6. KETTLEHOUSE BREWING COMPANY

Mosey on over to one of their Missoula or Bonner locations and try the gold-award-winning Cold Smoke® Scotch Ale.

7. GLACIER DISTILLING COMPANY

These small-batch alpine whiskeys in Coram are best enjoyed in the great outdoors. Try the Indian Paintbrush.

8. WHISTLING ANDY DISTILLERY

Bigfork spirits are "as pleasing to the palate as the land is to the eye." Try the Pink Peppercorn Pear Gin.

9. BACKSLOPE BREWING

Known for craft beer, fresh mountain air and happy people, this Columbia Falls brewery pairs amazing beer with equally amazing food. Try the jet-black Foreman Stout.

SHOP LOCAL

Take a piece of the big sky home.

Small-town business owners, artists and craftspeople, especially those with their own shops, boutiques, galleries or stores, are all part of what makes shopping on vacation so much fun. In Western Montana's Glacier Country, the lifeblood and character of our region is built on small—oftentimes family-owned—businesses that play a large role in creating the personality of our communities, downtown corridors, shopping districts and outdoor markets.

Glacier Country has more than 75 communities brimming with opportunities to explore everything from old-fashioned general stores and candy shops, to funky boutiques, antique stores, trading posts, and artisan markets and fairs.

For shopping at flagship stores, head to Missoula's Southgate Mall. With more than 100 shops, Southgate Mall is the largest enclosed regional shopping center in Western Montana and is home to national chains, specialty shops, entertainment and restaurants. The mall recently expanded to include a dine-in movie theater and a natural grocery store.

If you're looking to browse locally-owned boutiques and art galleries, plan for a downtown stroll along Electric Avenue in Bigfork, Higgins Avenue in Missoula, Main Street in Hamilton, Main Street in Kalispell or Central Avenue in Whitefish.

You can't leave Montana without sapphires and huckleberry treats—two of our favorite things. Visit Kehoe's Agate Shop in Bigfork or The Huckleberry Patch in Hungry Horse, or head to Philipsburg and visit The Sapphire Gallery and The Sweet Palace.

You can also find plenty of made in Montana items at Great Gray Gifts in Charlo; Roma's Gourmet Kitchen Store in Bigfork; Good Food Store in Missoula; The Montana House in West Glacier; St. Regis Travel Center; the Crown of the Continent Discovery Center in West Glacier; The 50,000 Silver Dollar Gift Shop in Haugan; Western Curios and Faught's Blackfeet Trading Post, both in Browning; and The Purple Pomegranate in Whitefish. Added bonus: Montana has no state sales tax.

DOWNHILL DISCOVERY

Conquer the ascent and revel in the descent.

There are few places where winter is embraced the way it is in Western Montana's Glacier Country, and with 300+ inches of snow, seven downhill ski areas, untouched backcountry terrain and miles of trails, it's no wonder Montana is often described as a powder-lover's playground. And when you combine our snow-covered paradise with blue skies, untracked lines, frozen waterfalls, cozy mountain towns and winter festivals, you have the perfect winter wonderland.

Glacier Country's well-rounded, full-service downhill ski and snowboard areas range from popular resorts to undiscovered treasures. With a combined total of 9,800+ acres of skiable terrain, 350+ marked trails and affordable lift tickets, your options for hitting the slopes are endless.

World-class Whitefish Mountain Resort features 3,000+ acres of terrain, 105 marked trails and incredible views of the Flathead Valley and Glacier National Park, as well as on-mountain amenities like shopping, lodging and dining, and it's only 15 minutes from charming Whitefish.

Lookout Pass straddles the Montana/Idaho border west of Missoula. The snow falls early and in full force here, dropping around 400 inches a year. A family-friendly resort, Lookout offers a fun mix of easy, intermediate and expert runs, as well as on-site dining and two terrain parks.

Montana Snowbowl pulls double duty as a local's favorite and extremist's dream. With a 2,600-foot vertical drop, deep powder bowls and tree-lined runs, Snowbowl rounds out its offerings with a rustic, on-mountain lodge serving wood-fired pizza and famously good bloody marys.

Sitting at the very southern end of the Bitterroot Valley atop the Continental Divide, Lost Trail Powder Mountain is perhaps one of the region's best-kept secrets, boasting 350 inches of annual snowfall.

Discovery Ski Area, affectionally known as Disco, is a local's hangout serving up expert thrills, beautiful views, steep terrain and uncrowded slopes with enough tree skiing, powder bowls, groomed trails and mogul runs for all skill levels.

Learn more about our downhill ski and snowboard areas at glaciermt.com/downhill-skiing.

WINTER ADVENTURES

Cross-country skiing in Glacier National Park. © DANIELLE DE LEON

Adjust your altitude in a Western Montana winter.

Your options for winter exploration are many, and regardless of how you choose to revel in our epic terrain, the adventure is immeasurable, and best topped off with a hot springs soak.

1. SNOWMOBILING: Winter in Montana provides the perfect sled scene, with snow ghosts, powder playgrounds and deep trails leading to stunning views. Sled the Burn: thousands of acres of once densely forested land in Seeley Lake, Ovando and Lincoln are now open for snowmobiling, thanks to our wildfire season. Rent a sled or go with a guide, like Rich Ranch in Seeley Lake or Swan Mountain Snowmobiling in Columbia Falls.
2. SNOWSHOEING: The simplest way to explore our winter wonderland is to strap on a pair of snowshoes and head out into the snow in any direction. Western Montana boasts an expansive trail system, and snowshoeing is a great way to explore Glacier National Park and Montana's state parks in the winter when there are opportunities for guided snowshoe hikes.
3. DOG SLEDDING: Get behind a team of snow-savvy canines and mush through miles of Montana terrain and across pristine frozen lakes. We have plenty of experienced outfitters who can get you on a sled for a guided half-day outing or a multi-night excursion, or for a more hands-on approach, mush your own team of dogs with the help of the experienced guides at Base Camp Bigfork.
4. NORDIC SKIING: Find peace in the powder by cross-country or skate skiing in a Western Montana winter. Glide the Going-to-the-Sun Road in Glacier National Park, the Izaak Walton Inn's 20 miles of groomed trails in Essex, Seeley Creek Nordic Ski Trails, Glacier Nordic Center in Whitefish or the Bitterroot Valley's Chief Joseph Trail System. Plus, Pattee Canyon is minutes from downtown Missoula.
5. SLEIGH RIDES: A fun activity for everyone from couples to families, there's nothing quite as cozy or idyllic in the winter as a horse-drawn sleigh ride. Book a sleigh adventure with Bar W Guest Ranch near Whitefish or Cripple Creek Horse Ranch in Trego. The Resort at Paws Up brings the spirit of the season to Missoula with free downtown sleigh rides during the holidays.
6. FAT BIKING: Winter biking is a trend that won't be going away anytime soon, and it's a wildly fun way to explore Western Montana. Fat bike around Missoula or Kalispell, or head to the Whitefish Bike Retreat Lodge and Campground, located a short drive from Whitefish. There you'll find on-site groomed trails and easy access to The Whitefish Trail. Fat bikes are equipped with extra-fat over-the-snow tires and can be rented in Missoula, Kalispell and Whitefish.

MEET IN MONTANA

Find inspiration in Glacier Country.

Taking a break around the campfire.

Unique meeting venues abound in Glacier Country. © THE RANCH AT ROCK CREEK

The beauty and amenities of Western Montana's Glacier Country promote team building and inspire big ideas. Located among wild country and wide-open spaces are charming towns and cities that provide a variety of distinct meeting places, from riverside lodges to rehabilitated barns and luxury guest ranches to contemporary urban sites with brand hotel convention spaces in the hearts of our downtown cities of Missoula, Kalispell and Whitefish.

Our region has the perfect combination of fresh Rocky Mountain air, jaw-dropping views, mouthwatering culinary offerings, off-site activities, modern amenities and the latest in technology. Western Montana's Glacier Country is outfitted to accommodate groups of practically any size at a variety of locations, complete with extensive activity options.

To help make it easier for you to plan a meeting in Montana, we've rounded up a selection of properties for your consideration when planning board retreats, corporate incentive trips and association meetings and conventions.

BOARD RETREATS: When it comes to retreats, lodging opportunities are abundant. We recommend Bridge Street Cottages in Bigfork, the riverside lodging at Quinn's Hot Springs Resort in Paradise, and the cozy, historic Izaak Walton Inn in Essex.

CORPORATE INCENTIVE: Montana's luxury guest ranches, personal service and vacation properties are becoming a favorite among planners. From all-inclusive stays at high-end resorts to authentic ranch retreats, try locations like Flathead Lake Lodge, The Ranch at Rock Creek, The Resort at Paws Up and Triple Creek Ranch.

ASSOCIATION MEETINGS AND CONVENTIONS: Montana has a surprising amount of ballroom space for meetings and conventions, especially in our three anchor cities of Kalispell (56,000 square feet), Missoula (170,000 square feet) and Whitefish (46,000 square feet)—home to the only Four Diamond hotel in Montana, The Lodge at Whitefish Lake.

TOUR MONTANA

For group and international tour operators.

Both domestic and international travelers have been longtime lovers of Montana. With wide-open spaces, authentic experiences, outdoor adventures and warm western hospitality, our group tour and FIT (Free Independent Traveler) markets are continuing to grow as visitors from around the world are becoming acquainted with our region.

When planning a group tour or developing personal itineraries for your clients, we're here to help. Our office has ready-made itineraries for motorcycle tours, motorcoach trips, hub-and-spoke treks and self-driving trips for your FIT clients.

While our region has abundant options for groups, there are many ways to combine Western Montana with other beautiful parts of the northwest, Canada and the Great American West region of Montana, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Consider a Glaciers to Geysers itinerary that combines two of the nation's most stunning sites—Glacier National Park and Yellowstone National Park. Or take advantage of Montana's close proximity to Alberta, Canada, and create an unforgettable Two-Nation Vacation itinerary that incorporates places like the Blackfeet Nation, Glacier National Park, Waterton Lakes National Park and Banff National Park. If you have a group tour coming into Seattle and the Pacific Northwest, consider adding a day or two in Glacier National Park.

Learn more about group tours, FIT offerings and sample itineraries at touroperators.glaciermt.com.

MAKE A MEMORY IN MONTANA

No matter where your travels take you or what your reason is for being here, the fact of the matter is this: Montana is good for the soul. And sometimes a visit to our neck of the woods is just what you need. Our corner of Montana offers a special kind of bonding power that comes from combining our natural beauty with uninterrupted quality time, which is just one reason Glacier Country is a great place for family reunions.

For generations, families of all sizes have been making memories in Western Montana. Whether it's boating on Whitefish Lake, learning to ski on a snow-covered slope, golfing in the Flathead Valley or hiking to Holland Lake Falls, there are endless ways to bring your family together. As you utilize the special kind of connection that comes only from soaking in the region's natural beauty, fresh air and outdoor adventures, you'll find unforgettable family memories around every bend. Start planning your family reunion at glaciermt.com/family-fun.

While Glacier Country is perfect for family reunions, it's also a beautiful place for a destination wedding. Montana offers an abundance of "I do" options: wedding venues like quaint inns, lakeside resorts, luxury ranches and mountaintop retreats. Local vendors—including wedding planners, photographers, food trucks, bakeries and caterers—can assist with planning the wedding of your dreams. Learn more about getting married or planning a honeymoon in Western Montana's Glacier Country at weddings.glaciermt.com.

CHARMING COMMUNITIES

Outdoor adventure meets small-town charm and warm western hospitality.

Views of the Missoula Valley from Mount Sentinel. © GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

Western Montana encompasses 22,000 square miles, and a vibrant patchwork of 75+ charming small towns creates the heart and soul of the region. Among all of our towering peaks and sweeping valleys, you'll find communities so captivating and western hospitality so inviting you may never want to leave.

From the tiny unincorporated North Fork community of Polebridge with a population of just over 100 to Montana's cultural hot spot, Missoula, all of our communities offer a world of discovery, and each one is uniquely authentic.

Find bustling downtowns, renowned farmers markets, 30 craft breweries, cideries, distilleries, local gem shops, art galleries, annual festivals, world-class recreation, a university and, most importantly, the friendliest people in the West. Every community offers something different and something for everyone, every season of the year.

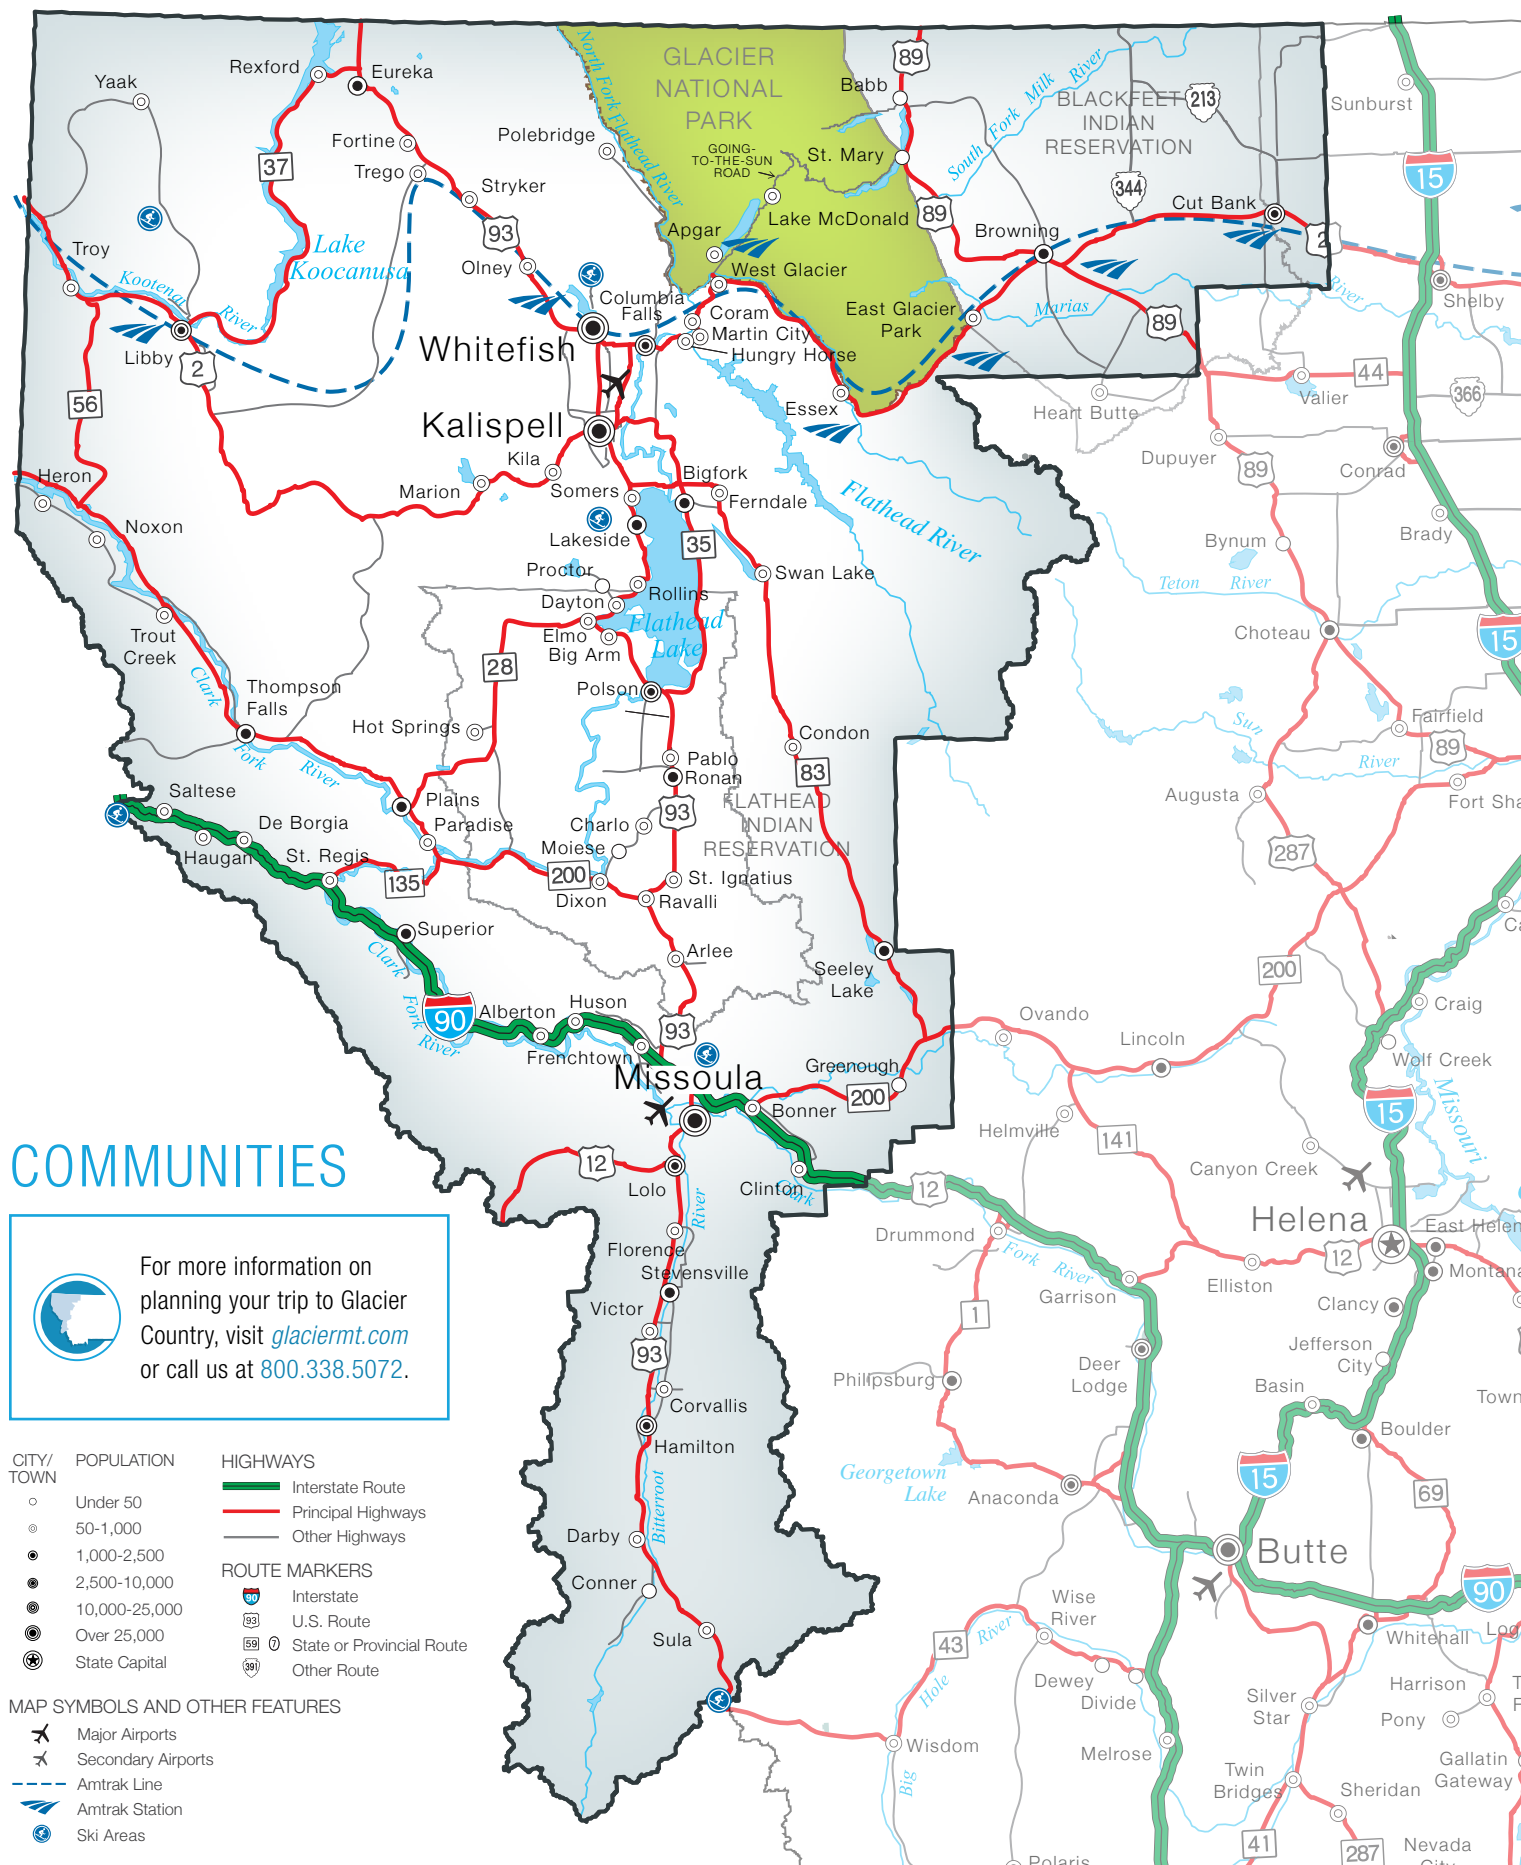

Stay and play in ski towns (like Whitefish), lake towns (like Bigfork), and towns that blend skiing and lake life seamlessly (like Lakeside). Float down the Clark Fork River right into eclectic downtown Missoula or explore American Indian culture firsthand in our communities that reside within one of the two Indian reservations in Western Montana. Discover small-town treasures in the Bitterroot Valley and along scenic byways like Montana's Tour 200, or spend your snow-season getaway in the winter destination town of Seeley Lake.

Find your park basecamp community just outside Glacier National Park, where towns like Kalispell and Columbia Falls offer easy access to The Crown of the Continent and year-round lodging and accommodations when you visit the park during quieter seasons, which are lovely times of year to do just that.

The best thing about the communities in Western Montana is that they're all surrounded by our gorgeous great outdoors. After you're done exploring what each town has to offer, take to the hills and the rivers for epic adventures among some of the most beautiful and pristine landscapes in the U.S.

Learn more about our communities at glaciermt.com/communities.

TOP DESTINATIONS

The beloved communities in Montana's scenic northwest corner are surrounded by nature's wild wonders, epic landscapes, two Indian reservations and world-class attractions. Discover a one-million-acre national park known as the Crown of the Continent, pristine backcountry wilderness, blue-ribbon trout streams, wildlife refuges, ghost towns and historical sites. Unforgettable adventures abound in Glacier Country. Here are some of our top spots to add to your travel itinerary.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK: Explore 1 million acres of breathtaking landscapes and unrivaled adventures.

FLATHEAD LAKE: Stay and play on the sparkling waters of the largest freshwater lake west of the Mississippi.

BOB MARSHALL WILDERNESS: 1.5 million acres of rugged and pristine backcountry terrain with 1,000 miles of trails to explore.

BLACKFEET NATION: Attend an authentic pow wow and traditional customs of the Blackfeet during the annual North American Indian Days.

FLATHEAD INDIAN RESERVATION: Experience the traditions of the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes at the Arlee Esiyapqeyni Fourth of July celebration and pow wow.

CABINET MOUNTAINS WILDERNESS: Snowcapped peaks, cascading waterfalls, 35 hiking trails and 85 high-country glacial lakes.

GARNET GHOST TOWN: Explore a unique chapter in Montana's gold-mining history at our most well-preserved ghost town.

KOOTENAI NATIONAL FOREST: Lake Koocanusa Scenic Byway, the Kootenai River, Kootenai Falls, Lake Koocanusa, Ross Creek Cedar Grove, Libby Dam and the Ten Lakes Scenic Area.

NINEPIPE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE: A wetland complex of glacial potholes and lush grassland, plus 200 bird species.

ROUTE OF THE HIAWATHA TRAIL: Bike or hike 15 miles of Rails-to-Trails adventure featuring 10 train tunnels and seven towering trestles.

SEELEY LAKE: Along one of our state's most scenic drives, this outdoor lover's haven offers fishing, camping and boating and is a popular winter destination

NATIONAL BISON RANGE: See 350 – 500 head of bison as well as bears, elk, deer, bighorn sheep and more.

ALBERTON GORGE: Raft epic whitewater between the rose-colored cliffs of this Clark Fork River gorge.

BITTERROOT VALLEY: Explore Kootenai Canyon, Lee Metcalf National Wildlife Refuge, Lake Como and the Bitterroot Trail.

montanarockies.org, glaciermt.com/alberton

About 30 minutes west of Missoula, the old railroad town of Alberton is best known for stellar whitewater rafting on the scenic Alberton Gorge. Alberton draws water lovers from around the region for fly-fishing and water play on the Clark Fork River. Book a riverboarding or whitewater rafting trip with Montana River Guides. If railroads are more your speed, celebrate the town's history with a visit to the Alberton Railroad Museum.

Located on the "big arm" of Flathead Lake, the aptly named community of Big Arm provides incredible lake views and close proximity to Wild Horse Island. Big Arm State Park offers camping, hiking, biking, wildlife watching and a long pebble beach that's popular with swimmers and sun soakers. Lake life on the Big Arm Bay means sailing, scuba diving, water-skiing and lake-trout fishing are all right outside your door.

Hugging the sparkling blue bay where the Swan River flows into Flathead Lake, this picturesque storybook community—named "One of the 100 Best Small Art Towns in America" by author John Villani—turns on the charm with world-class art galleries and Broadway-caliber theater performances at the Bigfork Summer Playhouse. This thriving community welcomes visitors with numerous shops, fine dining and a 27-hole championship golf course. Bigfork is also a great launching point for Flathead Lake recreation.

seelelakechamber.com, glaciermt.com/condon

The quiet community of Condon is situated along the Swan River between the Swan and Mission mountain ranges and is flanked by the Bob Marshall and Mission Mountains wilderness areas. The region boasts an abundant supply of alpine lakes. Just south of Condon, Holland Lake is a popular year-round destination with campgrounds, water activities and a beautiful hike to nearby Holland Falls, which freezes into an art sculpture during the winter.

visitbitterrootvalley.com, bitterrootchamber.com, glaciermt.com/conner

Deep in the heart of the Bitterroot Valley on the West Fork of the Bitterroot River, the small town of Conner is an ideal launching point for valley exploration, especially given its proximity to the Bitterroot National Forest and the 10,157-foot Trapper Peak. Also located nearby: Painted Rocks State Park, Lost Trail Powder Mountain and a hot springs resort.

DIXON

tour200.com, glaciermt.com/dixon

A division point along the Northern Pacific Railroad, Dixon sits on the Flathead Indian Reservation along the Flathead River. Watch wildlife at the nearby 18,500-acre National Bison Range, home to bison, black bear, elk, deer and more than 200 species of birds. Dixon is also home to one of the treasure state's many treasures—Dixon melons. If you haven't tasted one, you haven't tasted Montana.

This small community is located along the western shore of Flathead Lake on the Flathead Indian Reservation. Located in fertile farmlands, the region is known for its popular—and delicious—Flathead cherries. On the third weekend of July every year, Elmo hosts the Standing Arrow Pow Wow, a celebration of traditional American Indian drumming, dancing, native dress and food.

eurekamontana.org, glaciermt.com/eureka

The quaint little town of Eureka sits in the lush Tobacco Valley. With a charming main street and small-town hospitality, Eureka keeps the past alive in the Tobacco Valley Historical Village—a collection of restored buildings. Eureka offers a brewery, world-class golf courses and easy access to Lake Koocanusa and the Ten Lakes Scenic Area, with miles of hiking trails, fishing streams and campsites. It's also just minutes from the U.S./Canada border crossing at the 24-hour Port of Roosville.

glaciermt.com/frenchtown

About 15 minutes northwest of Missoula, the community of Frenchtown was founded by French Canadian settlers. Situated along the Clark Fork River in a valley called qua elth (meaning state of tranquility) by American Indian inhabitants, is Frenchtown Pond State Park—a 5-acre park that makes a great place for beginners to practice kayaking and canoeing. Frenchtown also offers a relaxing game of golf paired with great scenery and Montana's famous western hospitality.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK SURROUNDING AREA

The Glacier National Park area encompasses the charming communities of Babb, Columbia Falls, Coram, East Glacier Park, Essex, Hungry Horse, Martin City, Polebridge, St. Mary and West Glacier.

BABB

glaciermt.com/babb

Minutes from the eastern edge of Glacier National Park at the junction of U.S. Route 89 and Many Glacier Road on the Blackfeet Indian Reservation, Babb is one of the region's smallest towns. You'll find good food in Babb (including vegetarian and gluten-free fare), plus excellent fishing on nearby Duck Lake. (When fishing on the Blackfeet Indian Reservation, be sure to purchase a tribal fishing permit.)

COLUMBIA FALLS

columbiafallschamber.org, glaciermt.com/columbia-falls

A gateway to Glacier National Park, Columbia Falls is just 15 minutes from the park's west entrance. This lively Montana town is home to locally owned shops, restaurants, a brewery, a popular summer farmers market and a golf course that Golf Digest rated "must play." Columbia Falls is an ideal launching point for recreating in Glacier National Park, floating the Flathead River, playing on Flathead Lake and exploring 2 million acres in the Flathead National Forest.

EAST GLACIER PARK

eastglacierpark.info, glaciermt.com/east-glacier-park

East Glacier Park is the perfect place to begin a Western Montana adventure. As one of the gateways to Glacier National Park, this community is authentically down-to-earth, complete with friendly locals serving up home-cooked meals, coveted huckleberry ice cream and insider tips on area attractions. Located on the Blackfeet Indian Reservation, East Glacier Park and the surrounding area have cultural and historical significance to the Blackfeet Tribe. In fact, all nine holes of the local golf course are named after former chiefs of the Blackfeet Nation.

columbiafallschamber.org, glaciermt.com/essex

Though it may be small, Essex is a noteworthy Montana destination. A stone's throw from Glacier National Park, Essex is just off U.S. Highway 2 along the southern border of the park. Open year-round, the historic Izaak Walton Inn sits trackside and combines railroad history with outdoor recreation on nearby hiking trails and an extensive system of cross-country ski trails. A short drive from Essex, the Walton Goat Lick Overlook is a popular viewing spot for mountain goats.

columbiafallschamber.org, glaciermt.com/martin-city

During the heyday of the Hungry Horse Dam project, Martin City was a boomtown, home to rowdy residents, dam workers and some of the heartiest residents in the region. Just a few minutes' drive from Glacier National Park and the nearby Flathead National Forest, the region is ideal for remote, quiet camping with numerous trails into nearby wilderness areas. Time it right and experience one of Martin City's best traditions, the weekend-long Cabin Fever Days and Barstool Ski Races—a family friendly and roaring-good-time community event held annually in February.

ST. MARY

glaciermt.com/st-mary

As the east entrance to Glacier National Park and the Going-to-the-Sun Road, St. Mary is a prime home base for exploring the east side of the park as well as the Blackfeet Indian Reservation. While most of its offerings are seasonal, St. Mary has lodging accommodations, a grocery store, gas station, restaurants and campground. During the winter months, visitors can access the Going-to-the-Sun Road for cross-country skiing from the St. Mary entrance.

WEST GLACIER

columbiafallschamber.org, nps.gov/glac, glaciermt.com/west-glacier

Adventures in and around Glacier National Park often begin and end in West Glacier. As the western gateway to Glacier National Park, West Glacier has been dubbed "guide central." Local guides offer hiking and fly-fishing trips, whitewater and scenic rafting excursions, backcountry camping and trail rides. This bustling community has Montana-minded shops, great local dining and numerous accommodations, as well as a golf course with great views and affordable rates. Quieter during winter, West Glacier does offer lodging during the park's slower season.

RURAL CORRIDORS

To help you navigate your Glacier Country getaway, we've divided our region into nine scenic travel routes. Each of these regions offers unique adventures and authentic Western Montana experiences. Use these pages to decide what's most important for you to see and do while you're in Montana—Glacier National Park, Flathead Lake, small-town charm, scenic byways, backroads adventures, backcountry exploration, winter recreation, luxury lodging, wildlife watching, history and culture, arts and music, or all of the above. You'll find hiking, biking, fishing, boating, golfing and multiple ways to play in the snow in every single corridor. The wonderful thing about Western Montana is that traveling from one place to the next is always scenic. And, you never have to travel the same route twice (though you'll be tempted to).

Learn more about our rural corridors at glaciermt.com/rural-corridors.

DESTINATION BITTERROOT VALLEY

© GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

© GLACIER COUNTRY TOURISM

The Bitterroot Valley is a robust slice of everything you're looking for in a Montana vacation. The high jagged Bitterroot Mountains appeal to the landscape photographer in anyone, while the Bitterroot River's green riffles provide classic trout fishing. Hiking or horseback riding into the Bitterroot National Forest offers endless opportunities for discovery. Boating Lake Como beneath 10,000-foot-tall peaks is a fun way to soak up the Rocky Mountain sun. And with disabled-accessible trails, spotting birds of all kinds is easy at the Lee Metcalf National Wildlife Refuge.

Throughout the valley you'll find friendly, historic communities with plenty to see and do. The Daly Mansion and St. Mary's Mission are two of the stops you will not want to miss, while the historic downtowns of Stevensville, Victor, Corvallis, Hamilton and Darby will give you an insight into how this valley began. Gourmet cuisine, fine bed-and-breakfasts, a mixture of galleries, bookstores, breweries and cideries, plus unique retail businesses from Florence to Sula are all here to help make your stay memorable.

The Bitterroot has some of the best snow conditions in Montana, making it perfect for downhill and cross-country skiing, snowshoeing and snowmobiling. So no matter which season you choose—winter, spring, summer or fall—the Bitterroot Valley has it all.

tour200.com, glaciermt.com/noxon

Sitting on U.S. Highway 200 along the Clark Fork River, Noxon is known for huckleberries and a rich history in railroads, trapping, mining and logging. Located near Cabinet Gorge and Noxon reservoirs, the Noxon area is ideal for boating and fishing. Additional nearby recreational activities include hiking, biking, snowshoeing and strolling through the Rock Creek Cedar Grove.

glaciermt.com/olney

Between Whitefish and Eureka, Olney sits in the heart of the Kootenai National Forest. The surrounding wilderness includes numerous ranger stations, cabins and lookouts maintained by the U.S. Forest Service. Many of the cabins and lookouts are available for overnight rental and provide a rustic wilderness experience complete with authentic Montana views. Go boating, canoeing and fishing on Olney's nearby lakes—Upper Stillwater and Whitefish Lake.

ovandomontana.net, glaciermt.com/ovando

In the beautiful Blackfoot Valley, Ovando combines the area's rich ranching history with guided fishing, guest ranches, horseback trail rides, camping and hiking, as well as snowmobiling, cross-country skiing and ice fishing.

glaciermt.com/pablo

Carrying a hearty legacy, Pablo was named for tribal member Michel Pablo—a rancher and stockman who played a role in saving the bison of Montana from extinction. Headquarters for the Flathead Indian Reservation, Pablo is home to Salish Kootenai College—featuring a nine-hole golf course—and a tribally operated museum that shares the history of the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes.

PARADISE

plains-mt.org, tour200.com, glaciermt.com/paradise

Located near the confluence of the Flathead and Clark Fork rivers, Paradise is a small community surrounded by beautiful scenery and outstanding fishing on neighboring rivers. Nearby, the St. Regis-Paradise Scenic Byway takes motorists and bikers along rolling flats and steep canyon walls. Quinn's Hot Springs Resort offers beautiful views of the Clark Fork River and a relaxing soak in healing mineral waters.

RAVALLI

glaciermt.com/ravalli

Sitting at the junction between Missoula, Thompson Falls and St. Ignatius, Ravalli greets travelers navigating their way through Western Montana. Ravalli is close to several notable area attractions, including the National Bison Range—one of the oldest wildlife refuges in the nation—as well as the St. Ignatius Mission. Added bonus: a local bakery in Ravalli that is rumored to have the best doughnuts in the West.

eurekamontana.org, glaciermt.com/rexford

Situated in the lovely, forested corner of northwest Montana—between the Purcell and Salish mountains on the northern banks of Lake Koocanusa—the mountain community of Rexford is a recreation lover's paradise. Rexford is ideal for camping, hiking, hunting, snowmobiling, boating and rock climbing (at nearby Stone Hill). In addition, Rexford is a great starting point for driving the 67-mile Lake Koocanusa Scenic Byway.

ST. IGNATIUS

glaciermt.com/st-ignatius

At the base of the majestic Mission Mountains on the Flathead Indian Reservation, St. Ignatius is home to the St. Ignatius Mission. A National Historic Site, the mission was built in 1891 by American Indians and Jesuit missionaries. Adorning the mission's walls and ceiling are 58 hand-painted murals by Brother Joseph Carignano—a self-taught artist who worked as the mission cook and handyman years ago. Also nearby: the Mission Mountains Wilderness, stellar rock climbing, McDonald Lake and the National Bison Range.

troymtchamber.org, glaciermt.com/troy

On the western banks of the Kootenai River at Montana's lowest elevation point, Troy and its surrounding wilderness area offer pristine unsettled country, attractions like the Troy Museum and Visitors Center and Ross Creek Cedar Grove, and a groomed snowmobile trail that connects Troy with Libby, Montana. Each year, Troy marks Independence Day with its Old Fashioned 4th of July celebration.

glaciermt.com/yaak

Deep in the northwest corner of Montana, Yaak is surrounded by incredible outdoor recreation opportunities like fishing, hunting, hiking, camping and biking. Nearby not-to-be-missed attractions include the Yaak River and Yaak Falls—a beautiful cascading waterfall with jagged exposed rocks (some of the oldest rocks in the world).

BEYOND GLACIER COUNTRY

Montana in every direction.

While we tend to tout Glacier Country as perhaps the loveliest part of Montana (we admit it, we're partial), there are many other areas under this big blue sky that are just as lovely, just as serene and just as authentically beautiful as our corner of paradise. The whole of Big Sky Country offers endless jaw-dropping vistas and outdoor adventures, small-towns worthy of a stop and a stay, off-the-beaten-path surprises and genuine western treasures.

Our great state is full of small businesses, thriving communities and friendly folks ready to show you Montana's true nature. We love it here, and we're pretty certain you will, too. Here's a list of places that can help you get on the road to your most unforgettable vacation experience yet: Montana, USA.

Exploring the Kootenai Falls
Swinging Bridge. © ANDY AUSTIN

FIND YOUR MONTANA MOMENT

8 Perfect Views in Glacier Country

- 1. KOOTENAI FALLS FROM THE SWINGING BRIDGE: As the largest undammed falls in the state (located between Troy and Libby), Kootenai Falls is spectacular. For an impressive view of the thundering falls, venture out onto the swinging bridge that spans the Kootenai River.
- 2. MISSION MOUNTAINS: Travel north on U.S. Highway 93 from Missoula through the small town of Ravalli. As you climb Ravalli Hill, be sure to keep an eye on the rolling hills to the left, as they are part of the National Bison Range and home to 350 head of bison. Upon cresting Ravalli Hill, focus your eyes straight ahead for a jaw-dropping view of the Mission Mountains.
- 3. HOLLAND FALLS: While Holland Falls is viewable from the shore of Holland Lake, set out on the 1.6-mile-long hike in the Holland Falls National Recreation Area. This easy hike puts you up close with the waterfall, and provides expansive views of the lake and the Mission Mountains.
- 4. ROSS CREEK CEDARS: About 29 miles south of Troy off state Highway 56 on Bull Lake and Ross Creek Cedars Road 398, find 100 acres of 1,000-year-old western red cedar trees, some of which are more than 8 feet in diameter. An interpretive walking trail, just under a mile long, explains the area's ecology and history, and intermittently follows along the scenic Ross Creek.
- 5. LAKE COMO: Situated a short drive off U.S. Highway 93 north of Darby, Lake Como is surrounded by the peaks of the Bitterroot Mountains. Visitors can walk along the beach to the water's edge and take in the view of the snow-capped mountains. For an easy hike, take the 8-mile-long Lake Como Trail around the lake.
- 6. LAKE MCDONALD FROM APGAR LOOKOUT: For an expansive view of Lake McDonald and Glacier National Park's Garden Wall, take the moderate 6.6-mile hike to Apgar Lookout.
- 7. LOOKING GLASS HIGHWAY: A short drive from East Glacier Park, this scenic drive on Highway 49 provides travelers with stunning views of the Two Medicine Valley in Glacier National Park and the Blackfeet Nation. Be sure to utilize roadside pullouts for photo opportunities and keep your eyes open for the wildlife that calls this region home.
- 8. ST. REGIS-PARADISE SCENIC BYWAY: From St. Regis, take one of the most scenic drives in Western Montana. This easy curving road travels along the Clark Fork River and through the Lolo National Forest before connecting with Highway 200 near the small town of Paradise. Our advice: be sure to take advantage of the pullouts along the road for uninterrupted views of this region's forested landscape.

The getaway!
